Office of the Governor:

Kaua'i's Temporary Moratorium on State's Pre-Travel Testing Program

Gov. David Ige has approved Kaua'i Mayor Derek Kawakami's request to place a temporary moratorium on Kaua'i's participation in the state's pre-travel testing program. Effective this Wednesday, at 12:01 a.m., all transpacific and intercounty travelers arriving in Kaua'i are subject to the 14-day quarantine regardless of testing.

Gov. Ige said, "The unprecedented surge of COVID-19 cases on the mainland and the rise in community spread on Kaua'i are of significant concern for the Garden Isle. We must protect Kaua'i residents and visitors and ensure that the island's hospitals do not become overwhelmed. Kaua'i county currently has the fewest number of intensive care unit (ICU) beds in the state, and private providers are seeking ways to increase capacity. This moratorium aims to stabilize the situation on Kaua'i."

Mayor Kawakami said, "I'd like to thank Gov. Ige for approving Emergency Rule 23, temporarily pausing our participation in the state's pre-travel testing program. Given the national surge of COVID-19 cases on the mainland, Kaua'i is unable to adequately protect itself by utilizing the Safe Travels program at this time. Our travel related cases are now leading to community spread across our island. This temporary pause in travel will allow us to remain in Tier 4 as long as possible, keeping youth sports playing and businesses open as we conduct surge testing and contact tracing. I will gladly repeal the moratorium once we have the virus under control again."

The pre-travel testing program remains in place for all other counties. To view more:
